1947 Tower

The 1947 TOWER is dedicated to the Board of Education with gratitude and appreciation.

Back of the student body stands a devoted and unusually competent faculty. At the command of both students and faculty is a flexible, adequate, and modern school plant. Back of the whole institution stands the Board of Education—a small group of busy people representing taxpayer and parent alike and translating educational objectives into successful accomplishment.

FOREWORD

The class of 1947 has reached the end of the high school trail. Ahead lies the main road—the road that leads to new horizons and greater conquests. But as we face the future, our thoughts will often turn to the past—to a fond recollection of MHS.

The TOWER is a printed memory of friends and events that have made the days recorded pleasant and rewarding.

FALL OF 1946

RETURNING to school in the fall, we found that the daily morning assembly, initiated last year, was here to stay. It was now our turn to sit in the coveted front center section of the auditorium, and we tried hard to assume the dignity befitting that position. The morning assemblies were still the same, although the dreaded Room 12 list had changed its title. Occasionally we were treated to football pictures or musical selections — remember Frank de Leeuw's magic flute, Wilene Barton's moody sax, and Ralph Scull's trumpet in competition with the fork in the piano? As usual, announcements brought many surprises — several pairs of eyebrows were raised the day Mr. Howard explained how twenty-one student school days were lost during an unscheduled fire-drill. (An anonymous and undaunted indi-vidualist pointed out that Mr. Howard lost an additional five student-days in explaining his calculations — total loss — twenty-six days!)

Bi-weekly assembly periods again were very entertaining and instructive — our first period class had been lengthened slightly to allow for them as well as the morning assembly. The one-man dramatization of "Life With Father" by Mr. Douglas Mendel was one of the most successful programs ever presented here. The Great Neck Players also performed for us in a hilarious assembly, and Mr. Agar, one of our new neighbors over at Lake Success, gave a very educational talk on the work of the United Nations Organization. Several outstanding student assemblies were also presented, among them our own TOWER assembly.

The parking lot was more crowded than ever, with many post-war models mingled among the ever-increasing horde of ancient jalopies. Unseasonably warm weather made the lot extremely popular and even up until Christmas many hardy souls could be seen braving the winter under the leafless tree.

Football got off to an early start, with practices commencing almost as soon as school opened, but with only three lettermen returning, and a small turnout for the squad, the prospects for a successful season were rather poor, and Mr. Stewart had his crying towel out constantly. The players had some trouble with the new jerseys, too, for it seems that when washed they shrank down to freshman size, and it took a good deal of muscle and perseverance to get them on. The team, undaunted by such matters, went out to meet the foe singing songs of war such as "Little Brown Church In The Vale."

and defeated Oyster Bay, East Rockaway and Farmingdale, and tied Southside. Garden City, Port Washington, and Roslyn came out ahead, the latter by one point in a heart-breaking 13-12 battle, but all in all, it was a fairly good year.

Before the Garden City game, there was a rally to end all rallies. Some of the fellows got together and, with the help of Mr. Wright's station wagon, brought in fenceposts and railroad ties, and made the biggest bonfire in the history of M.H.S. The cheerleaders and many speakers also helped to brighten things up. On the Friday night before the game, when all were assembled on the south field the mighty conflagration was started. What happened to all the Boy Scouts is unknown, but it had to be ignited with kerosene. After a few cheers, Mr. Stewart addressed the multitude. Following him, Mr. Wright got up, took off his hat, and proclaimed to all that he wasn't afraid to show his bald head. Doctor Collins, who spoke next, said that he wasn't afraid either. This proved to be too much for Mr. Stewart, and, before the thundering applause of all present, he mounted the stand with an air of finality and doffed his hat.

Looking over the past seasons of Manhasset High soccer teams, we find such records as one won and eight lost, which is certainly nothing to boast about. This year, however, the booters have a claim to fame — they beat Garden City! It was a memorable occasion when Bob Rothar, this year's captain, scored the goal that made us the victors by a one-to-nothing score. It was a good, hard-fought game, and a lot of credit goes to coach Netter for such success. If you ask anybody on the team about the rest of the season, though, you will find that lockjaw sets in immediately. The reason for this odd behavior is that they failed to win another game. Of course, there were excuses. Injuries and bad luck both took their toll with the result that the final tally was one won, one tied, and four lost.

SUPERINTENDENT'S TROPHY

THIS year, with the initiation of the extensive intramural sports program, Dr. Collins is awarding the "Superintendent's Trophy" to the senior who wins the greatest number of points in interscholastic and intramural competition. Fifty points are given for a varsity letter, thirty for a squad letter, fifteen for an intramural team member and so on. This trophy will be awarded annually in the future.

Held at the end of the fall season, the annual sports dinner was, as usual, a great success. The cheerleaders served roast beef dinners to fathers and sons alike. There was some comment about the technique of the fathers with the waitresses, but the general conclusion was that they had lost their touch. Stan Lomax and two professional football players and former all-Americans, Nate Johnson and Eddie Prokop, were the special guests of the evening, and all three addressed the crowd after dinner. The most memorable of these talks was the lecture Mr. Lomax gave on the unpardonable sin of missing points after touchdowns. The awarding of varsity and squad letters to the members of the football and soccer teams was the night's climax.

In September, we had no sooner become accustomed to the routine of school when Dick Kimball, who had been elected editor-in-chief the previous spring, called an organizational meeting of the "Tower." A large number of seniors, revealing unsuspected ambitions and abilities, joined the staff and elected the remaining officers — Dick Higgins, assistant editor; Prentice Bancroft, business manager; and Bob Barnard, assistant business manager. With such preliminary functions out of the way, and the staff members assigned to one committee or another, everyone settled down to work. To get the necessary fund-raising started, the annual Tower Hop was given under the direction of Mary Lou Wilkinson. It was a tough struggle, but the persistent gals finally managed to drag in a sufficient number of fortunate (?) fellows to make the hop a complete success, with an unprecedented number of couples present.

The members of the business staff began soliciting ads at the local commercial establishments, and several other money-making schemes were thought up. Plans were made for a cake sale and personalized stationery was sold, with an amazing profit of twenty-two dollars on the first batch!

William Terzian, this year's official "Tower" photographer, won everyone's lasting friendship with the exception of a few members of the faculty, when some group pictures had to be posed a second time. It seems a small hole in the camera lens has to be given the credit for the additional respite from classes. The seniors' pictures were taken and sometimes retaken until almost everybody was satisfied that his or her picture was (or wasn't) a good likeness of the real thing.

As is usual in early November, the lights burned long into the night (or so the actors will swear) at the high school as the dramatic group, under the guidance of Mrs. Hansen, rehearsed for its fall production. The two-night run of "The Admirable Crichton," by Sir James Barrie, marked the completion of six weeks of hard work. The play itself is a clever satire on class-conscious England. Peter Mezey, as Crichton, gave the usual performance expected of him, but, as a result of his experiences during the production of the play, Pete does not strongly recommend soap for either soup or tea.

Instrumental music was given a big boost this year by the revised schedule which enabled both the band and the orchestra to meet two or three times a week. During the fall the band struggled valiantly to make some noise on the football field with its undermanned personnel — many band members played football, too. After the football season the thoughts of the department turned to real music and both organizations, with the choir, performed creditably in the North Shore Festival at Port Washington. Special plaudits were won by the combined orchestras, and proceeds again went into Mr. Webster's organ fund, which is rapidly approaching its goal. One of the fruits of all the extra work and practice done by the band was its infamous rendition of "Azuza" in the morning assembly. Several attempts were made before its successful completion, and the last time, Mr. Webster kindly gave us the opportunity to leave while they played.

Student Congress, under the capable leadership of Jay Davis, G.O. president, rode out a storm of criticism, spent a lot of time increasing its own efficiency, and came through a better, stronger, student organization. The G.O. council, the student body, and Congress were brought into closer relationship through a series of changes. Congress met on Wednesdays in the auditorium, and legal procedure and adherence to the constitution were watched by Bruce Nichols, assisted by Mr. Barham.

One day a week in the social studies classes was devoted to the reading of the Student Congress bulletin and the discussion of school affairs by the students. Of course, the teachers were as interested in social studies as in Congress, and Mr. Bartham will probably be haunted to the end of his days by visions of Bob Fiertz rising to the issue at a crucial moment and reminding him that "... it's Congress day."

Some of the Congress committees actually accomplished something. One of these, working on the problem of social groups in Manhasset, did an outstanding job of research and organization, and Dick Kimball, its head, proved to be such an instantaneous success in giving a report of the committee's findings that he soon had given it successively before Congress, the morning assembly, the Kiwanis club, and the S.C.N.

The staff made an attempt this year to publish news representing a better cross-section of the student body, introduced several new features and many more pictures, and produced a fairly good piece of journalism.

In October the annual Hallowe'en Dance was held as usual, but this year a new and attractive feature was added. As the main event of the evening, each class gave a short amateur hour program. The seniors started the ball rolling by presenting a hilarious fashion show, with the "beauties" doing a song-and-dance act. The freshmen followed with the story of "Mae in School." The sophomores presented "The Lighthouse Keeper's Daughter," and finally, the big hit of the show, the juniors gave a hula-hula dance starring Frank Simmons and his dancing boys.

Many clubs and activities blossomed forth this year with intense interest. The newly organized Spanish Club under Mr. Hoffman began to shape up. It contained many second and third year students. The German Club, headed by Mr. Ringwald, our new German teacher, planned visits to places dealing with German culture and language, such as Germantown. The club was rather small when it started, but has gathered momentum over the year. The French Conversation Club, sponsored by Mrs. Hare, made a trip to see the play "Joan of Lorraine." The members of this group are third year students of French. The Bird-Banding Club continued operations under the direction of Mr. Miller, our intrepid biology teacher.

The Honorary Dramatics Club, now known as the Manhasset High School Dramatic Group, sponsored by Mrs. Hansen, made several trips to New York theatres and had an ambitious program for the year. Its new officers were Barbara Allen, president; Pat Pickering, vice-president; Talman Budd, secretary; Carol Gutman, treasurer; and Janet Munnecke, trustee.

The Youth Center in the cafeteria was continued this year by a senior social studies class under the direction of Jeanie Gleason and Val Meyer. The members of the class took turns in pairs selling the ice cream and such, and several ambitious souls working there even attempted selling their wares at afternoon soccer and j.v. football games.

As Christmas approached, practices for the annual Christmas program were started; and, the day before vacation, the traditional pageant was held, with the choir and choral speaking groups taking part. As in the past, one of the most impressive features of this was, the candle-light entrance and exit of the participants.

Just before vacation, the seniors learned, to their dismay, that the Senior Prom would not be given as such this year. Instead, it would be called the Christmas Ball; and, run by an efficient group of seniors headed by Bob Barnard, it turned out to be a success after all. The decorations were effective, with a snowman as the central theme; and Betty Button was elected "Christmas Belle," a title corresponding to that of Queen in last year's prom.

After a welcome respite from classes for a week or so at Christmas, we were soon back at school in our usual rut.

In January the basketball season went into full swing. Not too much was expected of the team, as there were few lettermen returning and there were few tall players. However, in their opening game, the Indians routed Farmingdale 48-25, as Bob Rothar scored twenty-six points, and demonstrated that they were a team to be reckoned with. Rothar continued the good work, ending the season with a total of 198 points, to place him among the top scorers of the country. In league play, Manhasset was defeated by both her traditional rivals, Garden City and Port Washington. We lost our first encounter with Great Neck, but trounced the latter in a return, 59-50, in one of the most exciting games of the year. One of the highlights of the season was when the varsity packed up and took the train to Albany, where they defeated Milne Prep in an intersectional game by a score of 47-54. The Indians finished the schedule as they had started, beating Mineola for the second time, 49-58. Rothar starring as usual with twenty-three points to his credit. The team's final record was eight wins and nine losses.

This year, a whole new system of intramural sports was inaugurated in boys' athletics. The entire male student body was divided into two teams, the Iroquois, and the Mohawks, with Bob Barnard and Bob Fiertz as their respective heads. Tyler Dann and Dave Dewey were captains of the juniors, Don Burg and Jack Diefendorf led the sophomores, and Nick Cuneo and Jim Barnard were captains of the freshmen. An award, the Superintendent's Trophy, was to be given to the senior boy who amassed the greatest number of points through his athletic endeavors, the highest total of points being given for varsity competition. In the fall, six-man football, soccer, and speedball were offered in the intramural program, with the Mohawks dominating the former two, and the Iroquois reigning in supreme in the latter. In the winter, bowling, basketball, and boxing were engaged in. Boxing in particular was quite rugged, and Dave Dewey had some difficulty finding someone to spar with. Maybe all those black eyes around school were the reason.

Girls' basketball started off with a big turnout. Interclass games were played, and girls from all the classes were then chosen for the honor and reserve teams. Several games were played, including a win over Mineola. There were also a number of volleyball games.

During the winter, the New York Herald Tribune held a Pan-American forum which a number of delegates from other nations of the western hemisphere attended. These delegates, all students, stayed in the United States for over a month, living at the homes of American high school students during this time. Manhasset was fortunate enough to have two of them visit the homes of Laurie Crisfield and Werner Pleus for two weeks each, the delegates, respectively, being Luis Beltran of Bolivia, and Luis Siri of Argentina. They attended Manhasset High, made themselves at home in the community, and afforded a pleasant and interesting experience for all persons concerned.

In conjunction with the forum, a contest was held among metropolitan high school students in public speaking. Ken Nicheson, who won our school competition, went on to win top honors against the best speakers the New York City schools could offer, and finally spoke before the forum on March 8 on the topic, "The Americas in the World We Want."

In February, after much planning, practicing, writing, and unsuccessful previewing, the Tower Show finally was given. Although nobody can really be held responsible for such a terrible occurrence, probably most of the blame for it can be passed on to Dick Kimball, who had the misfortune to direct it. However, the staff felt that a number of "Towers" were sold as a result of the show.

Late in February, also, Mr. Dawson suddenly decided that it would be a good idea for the seniors in his English classes to write source themes, after all. In September he had been widely acclaimed for having decided against such a measure, but it seems that his conscience had bothered him. There was a mad rush for Doc Bishop's aid when Mr. Dawson disclosed the fact that themes written on scientific subjects completely baffled him, and the library was crowded with seniors desperately searching for references and material, and somehow, by the fateful deadline, March 17, almost everybody had completed the big job.

Early in March, the annual slugfest of Manhasset High, the Senior-Faculty Basketball Game, took place. The faculty were heavy favorites, with such seasoned performers as Mr. Stewart, Dr. Collins, and Mr. Swan taking the floor against a comparatively inexperienced senior squad; and as the game progressed, it looked as if they would play up to advance notices. Although the seniors drew first blood, the faculty, sparked by the accurate shooting of "Flash" Nannini, who led his team in scoring for the day, quickly drew ahead to build up an imposing 17-12 half-time lead. Undaunted, the seniors returned to the floor in the second half and really began to show the mentors how to play basketball. Aided by the departure on personal fouls of "Roughhouse" Stewart midway through the period, they soon surged ahead of the tiring faculty to win, 54-51. Bob Rothar and Dick Ewen were the big guns of the seniors, scoring seventeen and eight points respectively. At last notice, the faculty were demanding a replay. Apparently they weren't in top form on that occasion.

Looking back to last spring, we find the usual renewal of outside activities, sports, and gathering under the tree.

Lacrosse started off as usual, with an abundance of enthusiasm and material. With several stars returning, we anticipated a successful season, and therefore were not surprised when we opened with a pair of one-sided wins over City College and Poly Prep, aided by the scoring efforts of Jack Britton. However, the team dropped two close games to Garden City and Sewanhaka the next week, putting them in second place in the league standings, with Garden City and Sewanhaka undefeated and tied for first. Undaunted, the Indians came through to win four straight, including a 21 to 0 rout of Eastern Military Academy in a non-league tilt, and to cause a playoff for the championship with Garden City. Unfortunately, Manhasset lost, and ended the season with a record of six wins and three defeats in second place.

The baseball team had its ups and downs throughout the year, although it had to its credit wins over some of the best teams in Nassau County, and eventually finished third in the league. A highlight of the campaign was Fred Christman's 6 to 0, no-hit victory over Mineola. Earlier in the spring, he and Ed Rolquin had worked together to achieve a no-hitter against Amityville. The team's final league record was five won and five lost.

The track team was not in any sense spectacular this year, but has a promising future for years to come, the bulk of the squad being composed of freshmen and sophomores. A great deal of interest was shown by the fact that twenty or thirty potential milers showed up for the first practice. One of the sophomores on the squad, Stan Smiley, indicated that he is a fellow to watch, by running undefeated in all regular meets in his specialty, the 880, and placing second in the Long Island Relays against a very much older and more experienced field. If Stan and his cohorts keep up the good work, Manhasset will have, in the very near future, a track team to be proud of.

In spite of a few broken bones and aching muscles, the ninth annual Girls' Sports-night proved to be one of the closest fights Manhasset has ever seen. With Barbara Boos as Captain of the Orange Team and Rose Ann Heim leading the Blue Team, competition was fierce. The Oranges carried out their theme of the early west with huge totem poles decorating their half of the gymnasium, while the Blues used a sailboat in their entrance as part of their nautical theme. The judges, including the tenacious Miss Westervelt, had a difficult decision to make between the two teams, but when the night's activity was done, Mr. Howard announced the victory of the Blue team.

The social event of the spring, the Junior Prom, had a new feature this year. A "Prince" and "Princess" were elected, the lucky ones turning out to be Jay Davis and Caryl Stein, who were crowned at the height of the dance by Alison Vail. The prom was a great success and the junior class made more money than ever before.

Girls' softball and lacrosse began with plenty of pep and zeal, but no lacrosse games were played because of rain and spring vacation, and the softball team did not do too well in its three contests. The girls turned up with a good pitcher, however, in Dot Truman, and Lucia Thwaits and Joan Otten batted the ball around with extra special dexterity.

The Freshman Frolic proved to be an interesting dance given under the wing of Joan Larie and Joan Macy. It turned out well, and the class can even brag of having made five whole dollars!

Through the initiative of the G.O. Council, a new award was started this year for, as Dan Cornish so aptly put it, "service beyond the call of duty." The first presentation was made in assembly to Bob Guder for his playwriting work. Further awards were given to Tom Lundell, for his work in establishing a youth center in the cafeteria, and Andy Marglin, a faithful member of the visual aids.

Manhasset was given a surprise when the "Cub Reporter" was asked to take over the "Manhasset Mail" for a week. After completing a successful issue, the "Cub"

SENIOR CLASS

FOUR years of high school life remain as pleasant memories to the class of 1947. They entered as Freshmen in the fall of '43 — President Bob Barnard . . . McCann's championship six-man football team . . . Don Kries's ninety-four war bond customers . . . proud Youth Council members . . .

Choral reading assembly program . . . Regents Week off . . . freshman swagger. They advanced to the rank of sophomore in '44 — varsity football player "Rip" Rybecky . . . Bob "Basketball" Rothar . . . President Barnard's second term . . . Don Pelcher's first car . . . Big Soph Hop . . . Jay Davis as G.O. Secretary . . . parties at Erskine Forgy's and Laurie Crisfield's . . . debate with seniors . . . school spirit . . . sophomore jinx defeated. They progressed to the position of juniors in '45 — Jay, class president . . . Bob Fiertz, Jack Jaeger and Bob Barnard, football lettermen . . . Jerry Sweeney, Junior Prom head . . . Prince Davis and Princess Stein . . . Art Staib, Dick Ewen and Bob Rothar played varsity basketball . . . Frank Lincoln and Pat McKenna on the dance floor . . . Werner "Ah, Wilderness" Pleus . . . Barnard All-Scholastic Lacrosse Team goalie . . . Bob Murray's photographs . . . Miss Westervelt's money collections . . . A's to Bruce Nichols, Frank deLeeuw and Frank Jahoda . . . Carolyn Smith and Jean Neier not so dumb either . . . Junior Cheerleaders . . . Ralph Scull's trumpet . . . Art by John Willis . . . Gerard Vincent's Latin complex . . . Rudolf "Casanova" Arnold . . . getting ready to be seniors. They became mighty seniors in the month of September, in '46 — proctors . . . gobs of lettermen . . . assemblies . . . TOWER assembly, first attempt . . . TOWER assembly, successful second attempt . . . G.O. Dances . . . Christmas Ball . . . fraternity question . . . Cub Reporter . . . TOWER . . . G.O. Council . . . faculty-senior basketball games . . . cheerleading . . . Student Congress . . . tutoring . . . Juke Box . . . fashion show . . . Herald Tribune Forum . . . senior privileges (?) . . . Senior Day . . . Chemistry and "Doc" . . . Sportsnight . . . College Boards . . . committees . . . scholarships . . . plans . . . caps and gowns . . . final tests . . . commencement.

At graduation in June, 1947, it hardly seemed possible that the time had actually come to say "goodbye" to MHS. The whirlwind events of that last year, the prestige and responsibility of being at the top, and the interesting and busy time of a senior all combined to make a happy period end all too quickly. It was hard to realize that we were adults at last, that MHS would go on without us, that Miss Scott and Mr. Dawson would be advising a new TOWER staff.

That the future would bring greater conquests — college, business, home — there was no doubt. But wherever we are, we shall remember Manhasset High School. We shall recall the many days we spent there. Those memories will not die in the "march of time."

JUNIORS

WHAT characteristics make up an outstanding class? Athletic ability, scholarship, and talent are all essential factors. The Junior Class of 1947 seems to possess all of these plus enthusiasm and school spirit.

On the gridiron such juniors as Dave Dewey, Alden Fiertz, and Jack Wright have been indispensable to the team, and Tyler Dann, Ceb Benish, Dick Bergesen, Frank Simmons, Bill Kurth, and Junie Gibbs have been fighting for varsity basketball victories throughout the year, and give promise of a very good team next year.

The junior girls are as gifted as the boys. They have been most active in all fields of sports since their freshman year, and Ruth Garrick, Madeline Miller, Gene Lipscomb, Pat Bancker and Rosie Culbertson are among the best in the entire school. The Junior Cheerleading Squad has further exemplified the pep and spirit of the class.

The juniors have proved to be a marked asset to the school in more than one way. They undertake many projects and carry them through with a willingness and effort which is to be admired. Their Soph Hop was so well run that barely a ticket was left over, and the Junior Prom was equally successful. Their representation on the G.O. Council, the G.O. Dance Committee, the Girls' Athletic Council, the Cub Reporter, and many other school activities have made them a great influence in M.H.S.

The juniors deserve a good deal of credit for helping to produce "The Admirable Crichton" in November. It was to a large extent a combination of their talent and steadfast efforts that made the play possible. Peter Mezey, Pat Pickering, Warren Zorbaugh, Peter Barry, Neil Ries, and Janet Munnecke were among the leading members of the cast.

Nor are the juniors to be slighted when it comes to scholastic achievements. This year as in the past they have maintained a high representation on the honor roll. Caryl Carter, Ken Nichoson, Barbara Slauson, Neil Ries, and Peter Mezey are a few of the juniors with those coveted A 1's.

In a short time the juniors will have completed their climb to the top, and we can safely predict that they will be a truly outstanding senior class.

SOPHOMORES

TIME does fly, and the pink-cheeked group of freshmen yesterday are now worldly sophomores. This is a lively and active group whose varied interests are noticeable in many activities at M.H.S.

The Library Council was largely made up of such sophs as Joan Larie and Ann Finke. As dance-conscious as the rest of us, Jo Stein and Turner Austin have been invaluable on the G.O. Dance Committee. Nancy Barrow has brought distinction to her class by being one of the first sophomores on the Girls' Athletic Council.

In the field of dramatics, the girls especially stand out. Sylvia Carstens, Ann McGeeney, Alice Cleaver, Mary Ann Holmes, and Pat Fain have displayed their talent more than once on the Manhasset High stage. Don Guder is one of Mrs. Hansen's active male recruits. As speech-makers and singers the sophs also excel—Alex Williams and Mildred MacRae give evidence of this.

The sophomores have shown their versatile sports ability this year, too. Alden Johnson and Derry Kruse were two of the lettermen on our soccer team this fall, and the jayvee basketball team has relied on Jack Diefendorf, Don Bergh, Ed Vogler, Alden Johnson, Bill Coleman, Turner Austin, and others.

The girls are also active in the field of sports. Lucia Thwaits, Anne Fincke, Harriet Powell, and Evie Kelly are a few of them who have helped to form the reserve teams in basketball and volleyball.

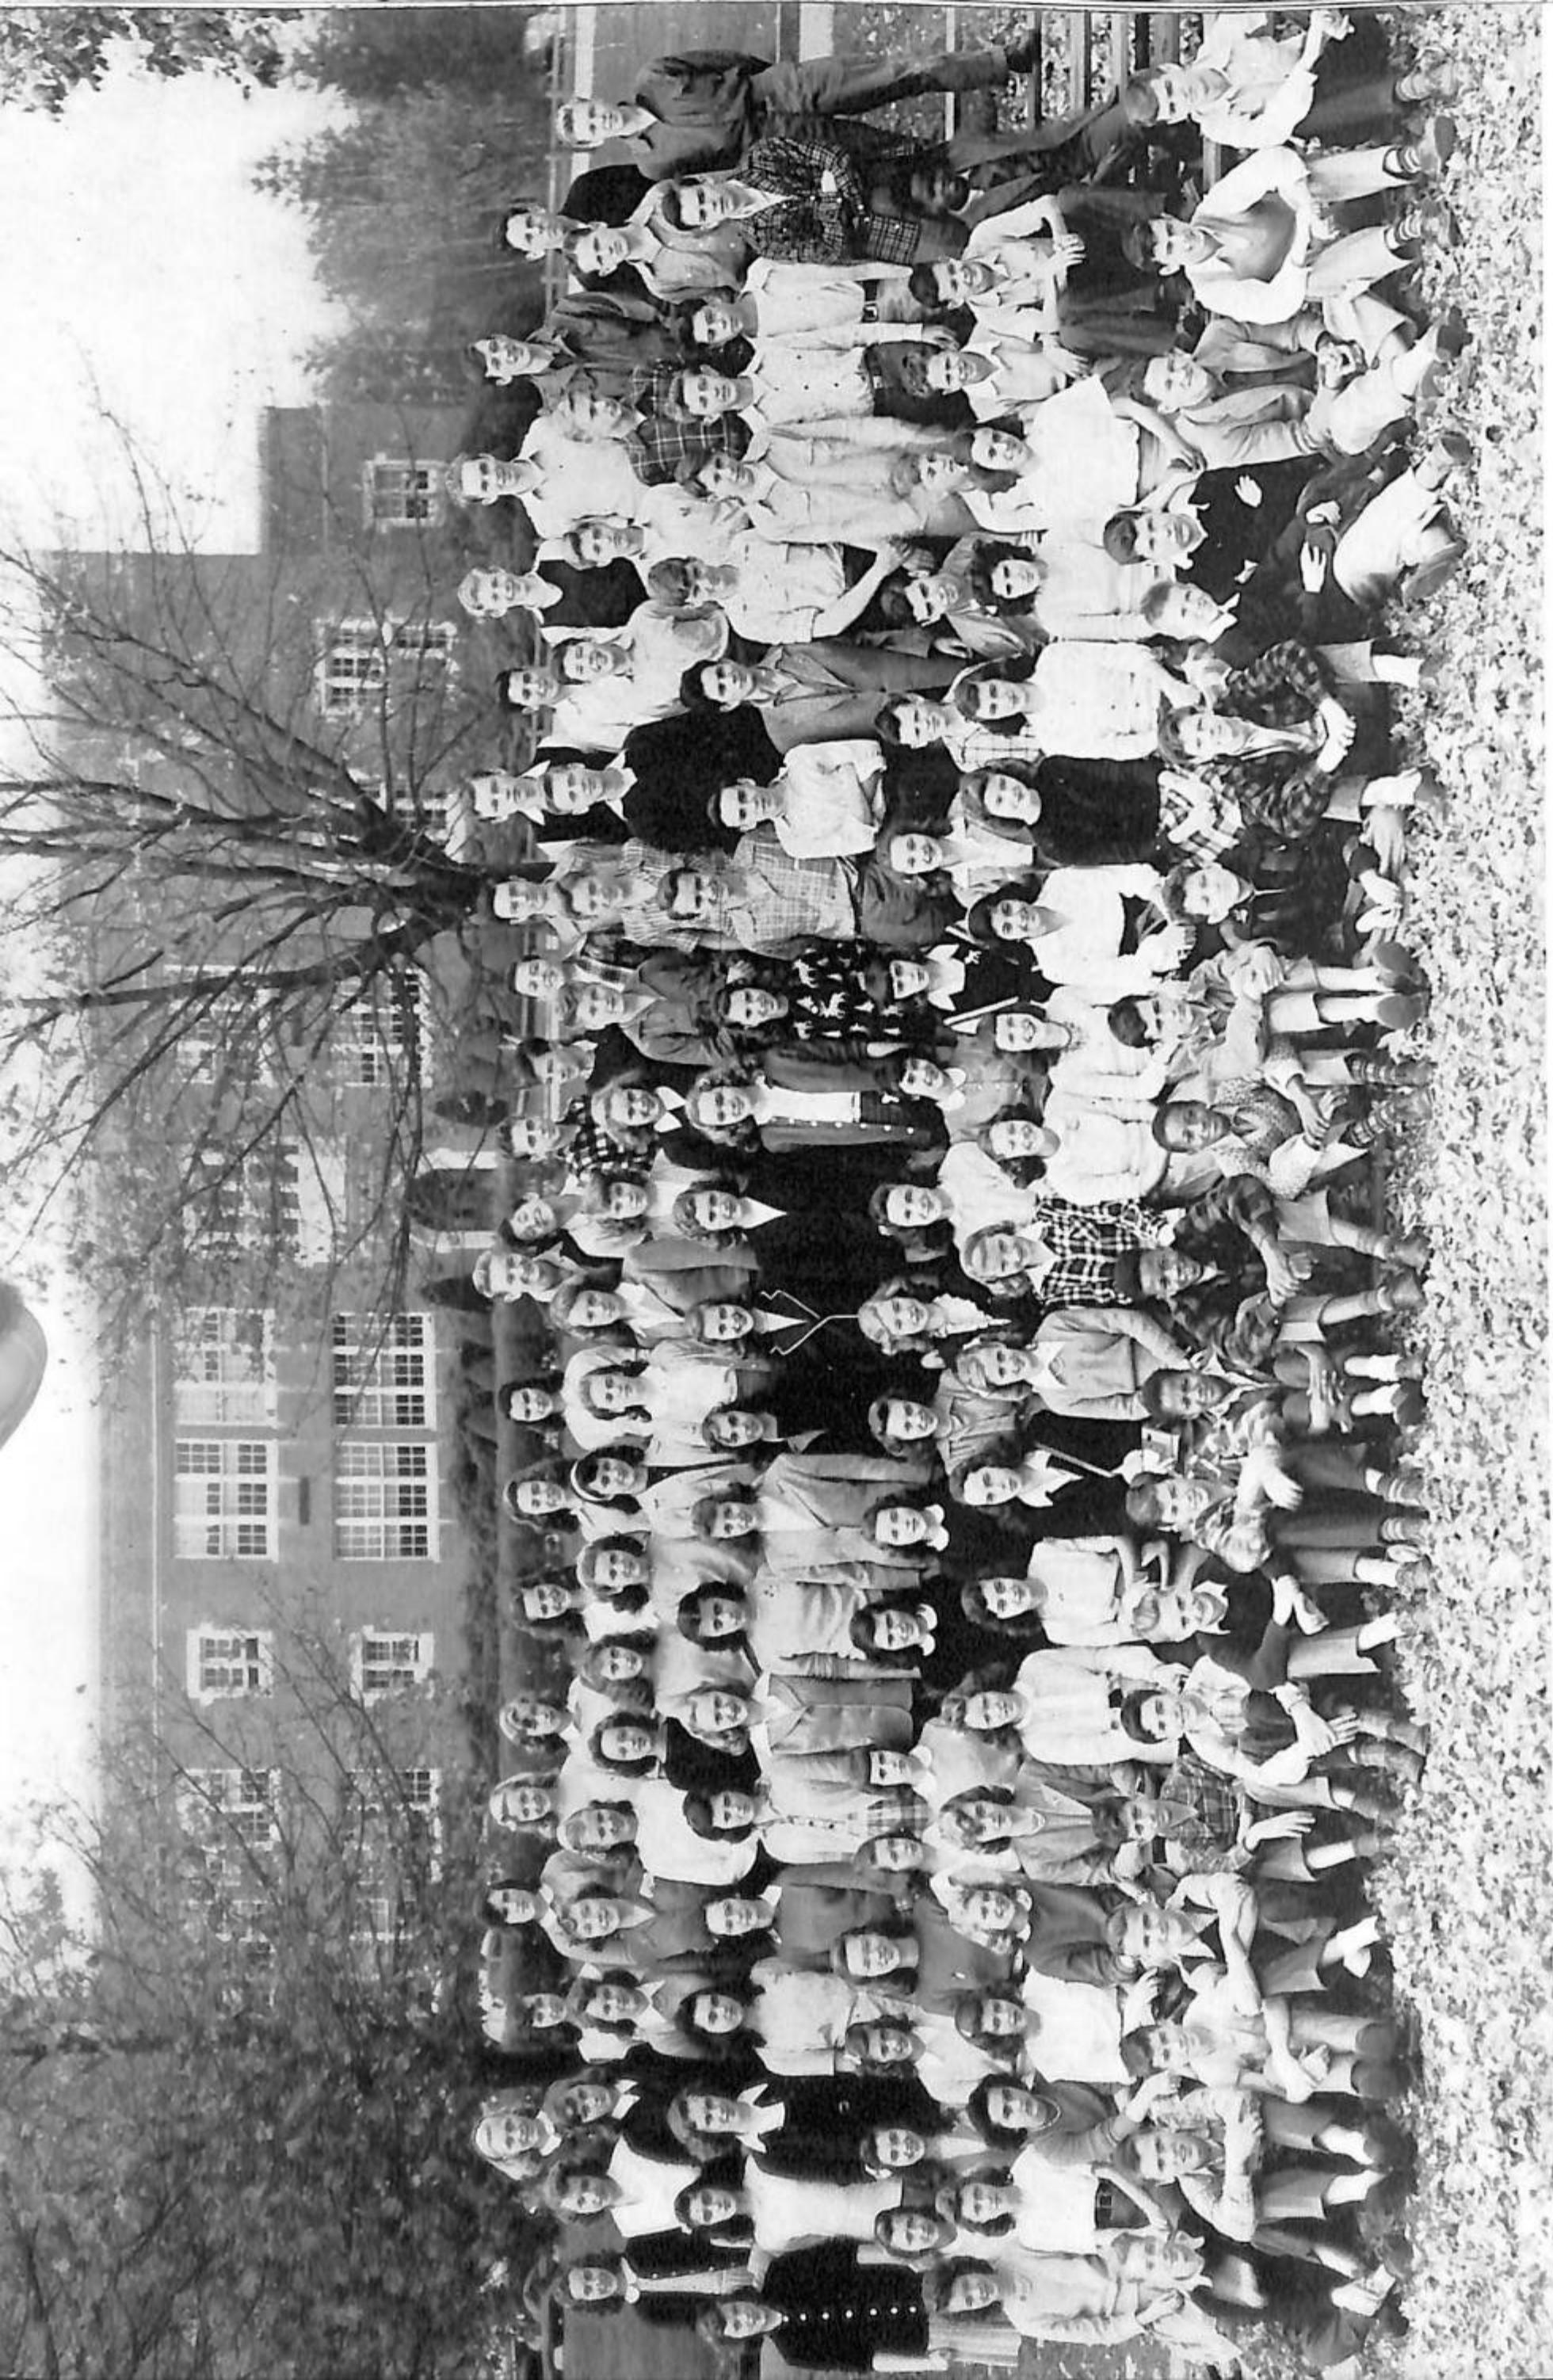

To all their other attributes we can still add one more. That is scholarship. Nancy Barrow, Hugh Kitchener, Sylvia Carstens, and Donald Payne are among the sophs' quiz kids.

Their first real opportunity to display their abilities came with the Soph Hop. It was traditionally successful, so from the sophomore class we're expecting even bigger and better things in the future.

FRESHMEN

"Hell no, they couldn't be old enough for the stately tower, and yet they couldn't all be visitors from the Plandome Road School." Yes, another freshman class had arrived on the Manhasset High School scene.

We were forced to eat our thoughts, however, when the class of '50 proved itself not only able to take an active interest in school activities, but also able to initiate its own school improvements. Among these are the Guidance Group, the Clerical Committee, the Mediation Board, and the Entertainment Committee. The freshman newspaper was continued with William Hagan as editor, assisted by Don Miller. The freshman also continued the supervision of the Lost and Found Department, headed by Barbara Guy.

The girls seem to have outdone the boys in athletics so far, but with such stalwarts as Betty Dewey and Joan Auck, how could they miss!

The freshman class is well represented in Student Congress, with such active members as Mary Lee Robinson and Bill Lang in there fighting to see that their class gets no raw deals. The honor roll seems to be made up of freshmen. We seldom fail to see the names of regulars like Judy Shumway, Dorothy Young, and Dick Roberts, thus indicating that the froshs lack little in scholastic aptitude.

Fair damsels and cazanas are good and plenty among the Freshmen. Many an such as Gordon Willis and Joan Sturke, who appeared in "The Admirable Crichton," and singers of the caliber of Marion Chisholm.

Fair damsels and cazanas are good and plenty among the frosh. Many an upperclassman has been known to fall under the spell of Sally McLachlan, Judy Thompson, Joanne Howard, and Priscilla Burling, to name a few.

As you can see, the class of '50 has made a good start for itself in Manhasset, and we'll be hearing a lot more about them in the next few years.
